Violent Weather Hammers Ohio, Other U.S. Areas

By The Associated Press

Violent weather felled trees, downed power lines and blew out windows as a string of thunderstorms rumbled across Ohio Thursday night, but cooler air was to move into the state today bringing an end to the unsettled weather.

There's a chance of showers and thunderstorms today over the south and east parts of the state, but by evening the cool front is expected to be through the state clearing skies for the weekend.

High temperatures today are forecast in the upper 70s and 80s. Lows tonight in the upper 40s and 50s and highs Saturday, under mostly sunny skies, in the 70s.

The heavy thunderstorms were accompanied by several confirmed funnel clouds, high winds and large hail, but there were no known serious injuries or widespread major damage.

The National Weather Service placed six northern Ohio counties under tornado warnings Thursday night. However there were no reports of twisters touching down in inhabited areas.

The Allen County sheriff's office confirmed that a tornado touched down in an open field just east of Delphos.

Much of the state was hit by severe thunderstorms. Trees and power lines were reported downed by the high winds, gusting up to 65 m.p.h. in some areas.

In Meigs County, high winds hurled two mobile homes onto Ohio 124 near Salem Center, blocking the road for several hours, the sheriff's office said. The mobile homes sustained heavy damage but no one was hurt.

Much of the town of Delphos was without power for nearly two hours and widespread power outages were reported in Lima, Celina, St. Marys and Wapakoneta.

Hail three-quarters of an inch in diameter was reported in Delaware County.

Thunderstorm activity also was reported over Lake Erie and the weather service advised small boats to seek a place of safety.

Thunderstorms and high winds continued today from the mid-Atlantic states into the Southern Plains and over the Great Lakes Region.

A tornado in Belle Vernon, Pa., blew over six mobile homes and caused one injury. At Greensboro, N.C., winds measuring 85 miles per hour flipped over two airplanes and a helicopter and destroyed a hangar. Also, winds estimated at over 50 m.p.h. overturned and destroyed several boats in East Dayton, Ohio.

Washington National Airport clocked gusts of 76 m.p.h. and winds of 67 m.p.h. were reported in Columbus, Ohio and Charleston, W.V.

There were numerous reports of damage to trees and power lines in parts of North Carolina, Virginia, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

Widely scattered showers and thundershowers broke out over Nevada and portions of central and southern California on Thursday but only small amounts of rain were reported.

Clearing and cooler weather was spreading across the North Central part of the nation with temperatures dropping into the 40s near the Canadian border. Clear skies also extended into the Northwestern states.

Temperatures around the nation ranged from 97 at Needles, Calif., to 42 at Minot Air Force Base, N.D.

26 Children, Bus Driver Vanish; Suspect Kidnap

CHOWCHILLA, Calif. (AP) — Twenty-six children and the driver of their school bus who vanished on their way home from a swimming outing apparently are the victims of a mass kidnaping, the Madera County sheriff said today.

Deputies and police searched the San Joaquin Valley farmland through a windy, rainy night split by lightning and thunder for some clue to the whereabouts of the children, who ranged in age from 5 to 15.

The bus in which the children had been riding was found in a dry canal Thursday night.

"It appears to be an abduction," Sheriff Ed Bates told reporters. "We are waiting to be contacted."

Bates said his investigators found two sets of tracks superimposed on the bus tracks, suggesting that an abduction "would have to be planned, it seems to me." The tracks showed that "somebody left the area after the bus was parked."

The bus, which was to have returned the children from the Chowchilla fairgrounds, was found abandoned in a dry canal during a search from the air. It was hidden in a heavy stand of bamboo in the flat farmland about 35 miles northwest of Fresno.

The sheriff said he couldn't "think of any other possibility" but a kidnaping. "There's no blood, no evidence of foul play at the bus. I'm at a loss for words about this one. I absolutely can't figure it. We can't find anybody who has a motive."

Bates said the FBI has been called in.

The children are students at the Dairyland Unified School, which school district secretary Nita Hansen described as "just a little country school."

She said the bus driver, 55-year-old Frank Edward Ray Jr., was "very reliable" and had been driving for the school for 28 years.

Sheriff Bates, who set up a command post at the Chowchilla Police Department, speculated that there were five possibilities: a "deranged guy" who had kidnaped the entire group; a "personal revenge, somebody who wants to make the parents suffer;" a kidnaping "for money;" a "terrorist" plot; or "some older kid on the bus took command by force."

Shortly before dawn Bates discarded as a clue reports that a white van seen the last two days near where the bus lets children off might be involved in the disappearance. The vehicle turned out to be a "dental van" which has been assigned to the area, he said.

The sheriff's office said it received calls from anxious parents beginning about 4:15 p.m. Thursday. At that time, the bus was two hours overdue.

Investigators towed the bus out of the canal and began a search, roping off the area around the bus. At one point, 30 officers from several jurisdictions were assigned, including a force detailed to a door-to-door search south of the town.

Officers recovered two towels and items connected with a childrens' ceramics project, Bates said. The key was missing from the bus's ignition, he said.

The bus had made three stops, letting off three groups of children, but it never made its fourth and last stop, Bates said.

Prior to Bates' announcement that he suspected an abduction, Sam Baretta, the father of Lisa Baretta, 12, one of the missing children, said:

"It seems so damn strange. There must be a logical explanation. I haven't faced reality yet."

MISS OLD TIME FESTIVAL — Miss Bev Swackhammer, center, was chosen Miss Old Time Festival at Laurelville Thursday night. Miss Swackhammer, 16, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Swackhammer, Route 2, Laurelville. Sherrie Grate, left, 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Grate, 17021 Stewart Road, Laurelville, was first attendant, and Kimberly Thurston, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Thurston, 17400 Crawford Road, Laurelville, was second attendant. Judges were Judy Hale and Karen Weekly of Lancaster, Zoeann Paxson of Thornville, and Ralph Fielder of Shawnee. Butch Valentine was the announcer and Mrs. Robert West was the Master of Ceremonies. Special guests were outgoing Old Time Festival Queen Michelle Ebert, and Peggy Riffle, Miss Deer Creek Dam Days.

Women Convinced Of Political Future

NEW YORK (AP) — Many women left this year's Democratic convention convinced they are coming of age politically and with a new appreciation of the art of compromise.

"Women delegates this year were much more politically mature about when to negotiate and when to be part of the system," said Carleen Waller of Nashville, Tenn., an alternate delegate.

"They have learned political accommodation, in the finest sense, and how to get what they want politically. You can't read this in a book. Women haven't lost their ideals but they've learned how to tie them into practical politics."

For the first time, women put together a cadre of their foremost feminists, including Rep. Bella Abzug of New York and Pennsylvania Secretary of State Delores Tucker, to negotiate directly with a presidential nominee about their concerns.

They accepted a compromise with Jimmy Carter over their demand for 50-50 representation at future conventions after winning a pledge that the party would lead the fight for equality and that Carter personally would campaign for the Equal Rights Amendment in 16 states which haven't ratified it.

The delegate selection compromise puts the party on record as "promoting" rather than "requiring" an equal male-female delegate split at future conventions.

Women also were successful in making sure that an abortion rights plank which they considered acceptable was included in the platform. The plank opposes a constitutional amendment banning abortion.

Weather

Partly cloudy with showers or thunderstorms likely today, high in the low 80s. Clearing tonight with a low in the upper 50s. Sunny and cooler Saturday with a high in the upper 70s. Chances of precipitation, 100 per cent today and near zero tonight and Saturday. High Thursday was 92 with a low during the night of 67.

Alcoa Admits Political Payments

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Aluminum Company of America paid at least $25,000 to Jamaican political parties and officials in 1971 and 1972 after U.S. Ambassador Vincent DeRoulet suggested the firm contribute to a shadowy educational fund, U.S. officials say.

These sources say DeRoulet, who died last year, solicited the contributions at a time he was attempting to prevent Jamaica from nationalizing American bauxite mining interests.

Alcoa, as the world's largest aluminum company, has a critical interest in bauxite, a vital element in the production of the metal. Jamaica is among the world's largest sources for bauxite. Alcoa obtains about 10 per cent of its needs from the Caribbean island.

The disclosure came with American industry already under criticism for trying to influence foreign political campaigns with payments and other forms of pressure.

First word of the Alcoa incident came when the firm filed a statement with the Securities and Exchange Commission saying an unidentified U.S. ambassador to an unnamed country had suggested to a senior company official that a payment be made to the educational program.

Subsequently, Alcoa said, company officials decided to respond to the solicitation. A certified check for $25,000 was written, but it was made out to the ruling party of the country.

That was followed by four more checks totalling $25,000 written to various officials of the involved country. Alcoa, in disclosing the four checks, did not make a link to the ambassador's solicitation.

The U.S. sources later identified the nation as Jamaica and the ambassador as DeRoulet, who was appointed in 1969 by President Richard Nixon.

In a statement released from its Pittsburgh headquarters Thursday,

Alcoa said, "The ambassador was only incidental to the event. We have no reason to believe the ambassador thought the grant was to be used for any other purpose than the education fund."

"We in no way said we were pressured or coerced by a U.S. ambassador into making a contribution," the company said.

The sources said the party receiving the money was the People's National Party, headed by Michael Norman Manley. The identity of the officials who received checks remained undisclosed.

In a statement to the SEC, Alcoa acknowledged that no proof was ever uncovered of the existence of the educational fund. The firm said the books of its Jamaican subsidiary showed the payment as a miscellaneous expense.

Government officials added that their investigation has not found any Jamaican education program and they did not believe such a fund existed.

Markets Carter, Mondale Plan Future Vote Strategy

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved broadly lower today, apparently depressed by the latest surge in the nation's money supply.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was about three points lower, and declines led advances by about a 2-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Weakness was linked to the Federal Reserve's report as the market closed on Thursday that the nation's basic money supply had risen $2.6 billion in the latest reporting week.

A sharp rise in the money supply has been unwelcome on Wall Street lately, since stock traders fear the Fed might be prompted to tighten its credit reins and cause an interest rate rise in order to hold inflation down.

Traders were also said to be discouraged by the market's latest failure to capture and hold its ground above the Dow 1,000-mark.

Among today's prices, Joy Manufacturing fell 1/4 to 47, Merck was off 3/4 to 73, and Rosario Resources dropped 1/4 to 26 1/4.

On Thursday the Dow Jones industrial average gave up 7.70 to 997.46.

NEW YORK (AP) — Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter today returns to Georgia where his giant-killer campaign began and where he'll map plans to capture the White House in the Nov. 2 election.

Carter and the other half of his Blue-Gray ticket, Sen. Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota, closed out the 1976 Democratic National Convention with tandem acceptance speeches Thursday night that proclaimed "a new mood in America."

Before leaving New York, where delegates approved his nomination, stamped a platform drawn to his taste and endorsed his running mate with more harmony than Democrats have seen in a decade, Carter scheduled his first postconvention strategy session and meetings with Democratic National Committee leaders.

year of politics as usual," Carter told the convention. "It is a year of concern, and of quiet and sober reassessment of our nation's character and purpose — a year when voters have already confounded the political experts."

"It can be a year of inspiration and hope. And I guarantee you it will be the year when we give the government of this country back to the people of this country."

Carter opened his speech with the line which mostly brought chuckles when he started using it 19 months ago, "My name is Jimmy Carter, and I'm running for president."

Trudeau Popularity Fades In Dispute

OTTAWA, Canada (AP) — Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau's venture into Olympic politics apparently has hurt his already dwindling popularity among Canadians while worsening further his country's less-than-happy relations with the United States.

At a time when opinion polls put Trudeau at his lowest level of public esteem since taking office in 1968, aides admitted Thursday that letters, telegrams and calls about his attempt to keep Taiwan's athletes from competing as representatives of China are running against him. The same trend is reflected in newspaper editorials and in man-in-the-street contacts.

The U.S. Embassy was clearly irritated by the Canadian government's reaction to President Ford's comments supporting the Nationalist Chinese. Foreign Secretary Allan MacEachen accused Ford of "political interference," but the Americans were understood to be more annoyed by MacEachen's suggestion that Ford was motivated by domestic political concerns.

Indian Leaders Wary Of Ford Invitation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House has invited about 200 American Indian leaders to meet with President Ford, but some tribal leaders fear Ford may be trying to use them to drum up campaign publicity.

Ford, eyeing both Jimmy Carter and Ronald Reagan, planned to discuss legislative commitments with Chief Goodbear, Chief Greenfeather, Chief Driving Hawk and 200 others representing various tribes.

Charles Trimble, executive director of the National Congress of American Indians, said the Indian leaders hope to direct Ford's attention to the Interior Department's "lack of performance in dealing with litigation that affects Indians."

Also, they want assurance that Ford will not veto a large Indian health care improvement act, Trimble said.

But he noted the White House had invited the Indians to wear their traditional native costumes when they arrive for the conference and that some of the Indians are concerned they are being used for political purposes.

"They worry that they are spending tribal money to fly to Washington to give Ford publicity," Trimble said.

Ford is in a tight race with Reagan for the GOP nomination as the last of the party delegates were being selected this weekend in Connecticut and Utah.

A lot of wooing of 172 uncommitted delegates was underway. Ford now has 1,032 delegates to Reagan's 999, according to Associated Press tallies. The total needed for nomination is 1,130.

Ford on Thursday congratulated Jimmy Carter on becoming the Democratic presidential contender. Acting like a nominee himself, Ford told Carter, "I look forward to a good contest this fall."

Press secretary Ron Nessen said Ford thought he and Carter would give the American people "a real choice."

Theodore Maars, an aide who helped coordinate Ford's meeting with the Indian leaders, said Ford planned to discuss new White House initiatives in division in the nomination race between President Ford and Ronald Reagan, Carter predicted a victory with his relatively youthful Democratic ticket, "no matter which Republican party they decide to send against me."

"We are a new generation of leadership," Mondale said. "We are strong. We are experienced. And we're ready." Carter is 51, Mondale, 48.

The 1976 Democratic National Convention ended with the Rev. Martin Luther King, father of the slain civil rights leader, declaring, "Surely the Lord sent Jimmy Carter to come on out and bring America back where she belongs."

After today's meetings here, the Carter caravan was to head for the family home at Plains, Ga.

As he introduced Mondale as his choice for running mate, Carter said, "The first duty that Sen. Mondale will have will be to help win the election in the fall."

Carter said Mondale and his staff would be asked "to put forward their own proposal about what areas of the nation he should visit most, what particular states he would find most compatible with his own campaigning, and to share responsibilities for major events."

Carter said there would be staff meetings following up today's meeting

Reagan Seeks Political Debate With Carter

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Ronald Reagan says he would like to debate the Democrats' nominee for president, Jimmy Carter, and talk about the cost of the Democratic party's platform.

The former California governor told Pennsylvania delegates to the Republican National Convention on Thursday that he would compare his record as governor with Carter's gubernatorial record in Georgia, and show himself as the true foe of big government and deficit spending in the presidential race.

Reagan met all day and much of the evening Thursday with uncommitted Republican delegates and delegates pledged to President Ford.

Reagan's campaign chief in Pennsylvania, Gordon Hoffman, said his candidate gained 16 delegates in the long series of private sessions, and several uncommitted delegates predicted Reagan gains of 10 to 15 convention votes from Pennsylvania.

But by the end of the day, Reagan had added only one publicly committed delegate to his list of five in Pennsylvania, and one of Ford's 72 delegates switched to the uncommitted column.

An Associated Press survey, before Thursday's switching in Pennsylvania, showed Ford with 1,032 of the 1,130 required for the nomination, Reagan with 999, with 172 uncommitted, including 25 in Pennsylvania, and 55 to be elected today and Saturday in Connecticut and Utah.

Today, Reagan planned a sight-seeing tour of the Civil war battlefield at Gettysburg before taking his campaign to Utah.

Mirrors Break In Two Injury Auto Crashes

Mirrors played roles in two injury accidents investigated by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies Thursday night.

The outside mirrors on two vehicles in the Hargus Creek Bridge on the Stoutsville Pike collided.

Dwight Dern, 40, 22705 Ringgold-Southern Road, and Paul D. Jenkins, 38, 22972 Ringgold-Southern Road, were drivers of the cars.

Dern suffered minor laceration to his left arm and a passenger, Roberta Dern, 38, suffered minor lacerations to her left chin and left arm.

Another passenger, Karla S. Dern, 10, was not hurt.

John J. Sanders, 15, 17321 Ringgold-Northern Road, suffered small cuts to his right elbow from flying glass from a mirror.

Sanders was a passenger in a truck driven by Joann Sanders, 40, 17321 Ringgold-Northern Road.

Mrs. Sanders told deputies that she was driving on the Ringgold-Northern Road 7:45 p.m. Thursday when she lost control of her truck while trying to catch a piece of paper which was blowing in the cab.

The truck struck a guardrail and the mirror shattered when it hit a sign post.

GOP Sees Good Race

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Republican national chairwoman Mary Louise Smith says she was happy that Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter had chosen Sen. Walter Mondale of Minnesota as his running mate in the November election.

She said the selection "makes a good ticket for us to run against. There is a lot of vulnerability there, and we intend to make the most of it."

The party leader, here to address a Republican women's organization, said she thinks Carter's choice goes toward establishing his identity for voters.

"He's turning back to the Washington scene and the things he ran against," she said, adding that "he has acknowledged that he will truly have to have the Democratic establishment."

She said that while Carter has depicted himself as a conservative to many voters, an examination of Mondale's voting record in the Senate "will show him to be very liberal."

Dam Work Scheduled

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Officials of Ohio and Kentucky have reached agreement to develop plans for construction of a highway bridge on the Greenup Dam crossing the Ohio River.

Ohio Transportation Director Richard Jackson said no estimate of cost will be announced pending engineering studies.

The proposed two-lane highway will link U.S. 23 in Kentucky with U.S. 52 in Ohio approximately six miles southeast of Portsmouth, Ohio, Jackson said.

The dam, Jackson said, was built by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and designed at Kentucky's request to support a two-lane bridge.

Jackson said the agreement came Wednesday in a meeting in Columbus with Calvin C. Grayson, Kentucky Transportation Planning Engineer.

Ohio has had an agreement with Kentucky for several years to cooperate in completing a facility across the Ohio River at this location, he said.

No date of completion will be set until after the preliminary engineering studies, Jackson said.

A Page Of Opinion

Reverse Conformity

Machines, it is said, can perform work of consistently higher standards and with greater efficiency than men. In many industrial situations that undoubtedly is true, but the Postal Service seems determined to prove the reverse also may be the rule.

First it was exposes of several bulk mail handling facilities which revealed to the public that it isn't by accident that a large number of parcels and other types of mail are delivered with radically changed appearances, and many are not delivered at all. No accident is involved, only the systematic rendering of the mail by machines.

Undaunted, someone in the Postal Service has figured the way to remedy that situation is to make the mail user conform to the machine's idiosyncrasies.

Consequently, envelopes are to be standardized in size within two years. It will still be possible to mail something outside the service's standard format — but at a premium.

One wonders what might happen if a factory manager in private industry had a similar problem with his machines. If his factory stamped out automobile door panels, for instance, would the designs have to be changed so they all met the stamping machine's requirements?

Wit Always Finds Its Mark

By JIM BISHOP

Wit isn't always sparkling, and it isn't a joke. It is a one-line riposte, a felt-tipped sword, something which amuses all ears except two. It takes many forms, but its most salient point is that it must be spontaneous.

Oscar Wilde was at a London party and made a brilliant observation. A journalist said, "I wish I had said that." "Don't worry," poet said. "You will."

A man walked into a bar carrying a duck. "Hey," the bartender said, "what are you doing with that pig?" The customer said, "Can't you see it's a duck." "I wasn't speaking to you," the bartender said, "I was talking to the duck."

Sometimes wit is silent. Dorothy Parker and George Kaufman shared a lonely office in the Metropolitan Opera building. "I wish," she said, "someone, anyone would walk in once in a while." Kaufman walked out and hung a Men's Room sign on the door.

At other times, wit is weak but poignant. A dull husband proposed a vacation to his wife. "Nothing doing," she said. "When I married you, it was my last resort."

Wilson Mizner was writing Hollywood movies, when he observed, "If you steal from one author, it's plagiarism; if you steal from many, it's research." And, "I've been in Hollywood many years and I'm convinced the heroes are in the audience."

A moocher accepted a weak, well-filtered cigarette. He took a drag. "This isn't smoking," he said sadly, "it only turns my breath gray."

It was Walter Winchell who observed, "Be nice to all the people on the way up because you'll meet the same ones on the way down." Franklin P. Adams said, "I respect faith, but suspicion is what gets you an education."

It was said of an effeminate man, "For Christmas he's going to buy 40 pounds of steel wool and knit his mother a stove."

Mizner at a party noticed an extremely thin man and said, "He's a trellis for varicose veins." Of a heavyweight champ who owned a saloon: "He's so dumb he crawled under the swinging doors for two years before he found out they swing both ways."

Wilde stood beside a beautiful young woman at a royal ball. He pointed to a decrepit old millionaire. "Would you marry him for all his money?" She giggled. "I suppose." "Would you sleep with him for a shilling?" She became haughty. "What do you think I am?"

"We've already established that," he said. "We're trying to establish a fair price."

Of a larcenous bookie: "He's the only man who has rubber pockets so he can steal soup." To a slow waiter: "Another cup of coffee, please, and bring it under your arm to keep it warm."

Wilson Mizner married a rich woman and stole her copy of "The Last Supper" and sold it. "You sold my masterpiece," she howled. "Some masterpiece," he said. "The hock shop gave me 10 bucks a plate."

Alaska is the biggest snow job America ever bought. A paroled prisoner on his first night out: "I've had better steaks than this for bad behavior." The Mona Lisa smile has been solved: It's what your wife looks like when you tell her you worked late at the office.

The only way to make sure a baby sitter does her work is to put the kid in the refrigerator. There's an old vet who insists that the first birth-control device was Army coffee.

Short boy asks tall girl for a dance. "Sorry," she sniffs, "I never dance with a child." "Excuse me," says shorty, "I didn't realize your condition."

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — In the Democratic tradition, Jimmy Carter believes that the best remedy for an economy that has been through a long siege of illness is to get out of bed and begin exercising.

In that sense he is like a good many modern doctors who assure the patient that, while the operation might indeed have been harrowing, it is best that he or she take a walk down the corridor the following day.

The Republicans, of course, have a very different view. They feel the sick patient must be nursed along slowly lest the incision reopen and produce all sorts of side effects. Easy does it, they say. Speed kills.

And so over the years you have a succession of Democratic candidates who insist that in the name of humanity the country needs to get moving again, while the Republicans, claiming logic and discipline, urge stability and restraint.

Carter seeks to combine the best of both positions, but in the most basic of equations, jobs versus inflation, he has come out unmistakably as an advocate of more jobs, while clearly recognizing the flirtation with inflation.

While the Ford administration obviously cares about jobs too, it has left little doubt about inflation being the No. 1 economic concern, and action against it the No. 1 economic priority.

In the Republican view, to urge the economy on, to create more jobs quickly instead of gradually, is to invite more inflation and, as a consequence, another bust. A bust in which those jobs would be lost again.

Ford repeatedly has expressed that position, and even when the country was on the brink of its worst recession since the 1930s he was, to his later embarrassment, considering a tax increase in order to slow the economy.

Carter's view of job-inflation is markedly different. In a very frank interview with Fortune magazine earlier this year he stated flatly his opinion that the jobless rate could be pushed below 5 per cent without more inflation.

Few Republicans are inclined to go that far, and thereby inevitably lay themselves open to accusations of apathy toward the problem of the jobless. While such a charge is spurious, it is true that Republicans in general believe that a higher jobless rate might have to be tolerated.

Carter believes that "if we get down below 4 per cent unemployment, you would have very high inflationary pressures as you tried to reach lower and lower levels of unemployment."

And, he told Fortune editors, the inflation rate would probably rise above 10 per cent within a few years after a jobless level of 3 per cent was reached.

The jobs versus inflation issue, therefore, is seen as one of degree rather than philosophy.

The Ford administration believes that right now we are producing the most jobs we can without generating an even higher rate of inflation. Go slowly but steadily, it states, and unemployment will fall in the same manner.

Carter says we're nowhere near our limits.

Again, there is nothing unique in these approaches, and many political analysts tend to see the Democrats as the party that takes the risks, and the Republicans as the ones who come in to restore stability.

It doesn't take much research to spot the exceptions to this — in recent years, for example, we had little inflation under President John F. Kennedy, a lot under President Richard M. Nixon — but there might be truth in it this year.

Carter believes there is a lot more potential energy in the patient and that we should encourage it not force it to exercise that potential, whereas President Ford fears that to do so would only drive the patient's inflation fever higher.

No Talks Planned In Hospital Strike

CINCINNATI (AP) — No new talks were planned Thursday between the University of Cincinnati and 1,640 workers who struck the two hospitals late Tuesday night.

A university spokesman said a federal mediator was expected to call both parties back to the bargaining table "today or the next day."

General Hospital, operated by the University of Cincinnati Medical Center, continued efforts to reduce its patient population. Holmes Hospital, also struck by District 51, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME) said no such program was necessary there.

Circleville's most famous son, Ted Lewis, paid a surprise visit to the annual Sidewalk Sale. Ted really was impressed with the street-level sales event, according to Mayor Ben Gordon. Reports claimed Ted bought pastries from one shop and then gave them away in front of the Elks Lodge.

As part of a curriculum, Circleville High School students enrolled in summer driver's training were asked to stand on the corner of Court and Main Sts. and record all violations they witnessed in one hour. They marked 260 jaywalkers, 86 vehicles that turned without signaling, 30 double parkers, 115 cars that changed lanes without signaling, 35 persons who entered cars from the wrong side, five cars that ran red lights, two cars that were parked near fire hydrants, and 35 cars which operated recklessly.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My daughter got hold of some water pills from some friends in her high school class. They now share these pills in order to lose weight. How can I convince her that this is dangerous?

Mrs. D. K., N.C.

Dear Mrs. K.:

Sharing any kind of pills is fraught with danger. Both the giver and the taker are doing themselves an injustice.

The parents of the girl who is trading these water pills should be informed about this ridiculous complexity. The doctor who prescribed the diuretic, or water pills, should also be told about this.

The balance of fluid in the body is one of the most remarkable mechanisms for the maintenance of good health. In most instances, the elimination of water, and the amount of water that is taken, maintains that important balance.

Under some circumstances, such as circulatory problems, kidney diseases, heart disease and hormone irregularities there may be an unusual retention of excess fluid. Some women, just prior to their menstrual periods, will retain more than normal fluid in their tissues.

Diuretics, or water pills, are used to increase the elimination of fluids from the body. An attempt to lose weight by the use of diuretics is a false notion.

Temporary loss of weight because of the loss of fluid is the most that can be hoped for with the use of water pills.

The use of diuretics, when used under the specific guidance of the doctor for specific reasons, is a valuable therapeutic technique.

I fractured my leg two months ago. I was healed completely. When the weather is turning bad I feel definite pains only in that leg. Can weather have anything to do with a healed fracture?

Mr. D.S., N.Y.

Dear Mr. S.:

Your story is not uncommon. It seems that a great many people complain of unpleasant sensations in the area of a fracture before, or during a change of weather.

In the absence of any X-ray or other findings this should not be a source of concern. Almost always, after four to six months, these pains tend to disappear.

They'll Do It Every Time

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

When To Tell Men About Breast Surgery

DEAR ABBY: I am 28, unmarried and have just had one breast removed (cancer).
When I meet a man who is not aware of the surgery I've had, do you think I should tell him about it or not? I've discussed it with several people. My mother says, "Don't tell him until you are engaged to marry him."
My physician says, "Tell him as soon as you think he could become seriously interested in you."

My best friend says, "It is best to tell a man early in the friendship because it might make a difference in the way he feels about you, and it's unfair to hold it back."
I would like your opinion and the opinion of men who may have had some experience with this problem.

HAVING DOUBTS
DEAR HAVING: I vote with your physician. Readers?

DEAR ABBY: I wear a wig sometimes, but not all the time. I have this friend who, no matter who is present men, women or strangers will walk up to me, lift up my hair (or wig) and even tug on it and ask, "Is that a wig you're wearing or is that your own hair?"

Abby, when she does that, I get terribly embarrassed. How can I tell her in a nice way, so I don't offend her, that whether I'm wearing a wig or not is nobody's business but my own?

WIG-WEARER
DEAR WIG-WEARER: Tell her in plain language. And if she embarrasses you in this manner again, give the same consideration to HER as she gives to YOU. (Like practically none.)

DEAR ABBY: I am very much in love with a wonderful man and we are planning to be married just as soon as my divorce comes through, which should be within the next few months.

My fiancé wants to give me a diamond engagement ring right now. Would it be proper for me to wear an engagement ring while I'm still legally married? I don't really feel married. I've been separated from my husband for over a year.

IN LOVE AND CONFUSED
DEAR IN: Until you're divorced you're married. Cool it until your divorce is final.

CONFIDENTIAL TO
HEARTSICK IN HURON, S.D.: Tell your husband you found the letter and give him a chance to explain it. Don't prejudice him.

Public School Aid Formula Pondered

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The formula used to calculate state aid to public schools under Gov. Otis R. Bowen's property tax freeze probably will be changed in the 1977 legislature, according to State Budget Director Edison L. Thuma.

Thuma said eliminating "ghost kids" from the formula might be enough to equalize the distribution of state aid and ease the financial crunch which has local school officials in fast-developing areas screaming for financial relief.

Bowen's tax restructuring program froze the total amount of local appropriations to public schools at the 1973 level. Thuma said the "ghost kids" represented the difference in enrollment between 1973 and 1976.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Comedian Morey Amsterdam wrote jokes for Will Rogers at the age of 15 and is busy now, at age 61, plotting a return to television with actress Rose Marie.

"It'll be a continuation of the Dick Van Dyke Show but this one might take place in an ad agency," he said in a recent interview.

Amsterdam and Rose Marie, whom he has known since she was 14, became familiar to millions of Americans as Buddy and Sally, a pair of comedy writers on the "The Allen Brady Show," a television series within a television series, "The Dick Van Dyke Show".

Amsterdam says his new TV series is still in the planning stages, just one of many kettles on his stove.

This fall his "cook book for drunks" titled "Betty Cooker's Crock Book" will be published.

"I did this as a joke," he said. "Whenever I was in Europe I noticed that 90 per cent of the meals were made with some kind of booze in them so I got the idea and started collecting the different recipes. And you know what's funny, I don't even drink."

About 150 "drunk jokes" will be interspersed between the recipes.

Also to be published this fall will be Amsterdam's "Celebrity Diet Book", a collection of the favorite diets of top celebrities.

"I'd just finished my other book and I was sitting in my publisher's office and he said, 'Well, what do you have for us now?' Well, I said, 'What's a sure-fire book?' And he said 'Anything with the word diet in it,'" Amsterdam explained.

"Well, I thought, celebrities are always watching their weight. You've got to remember, on television you put on 20 pounds immediately. It's something about the medium."

So Amsterdam collected the diets of 125 celebrities, many of them friends, and packaged them for publication.

In addition to the publishing projects, Amsterdam is the master-

Cox Enterprises Joins Mill Work

ATLANTA (AP) — Cox Enterprises, Inc., is joining Knight-Ridder Newspapers, Inc., and Media General, Inc., in the construction of a newsprint mill in the Southeast that will cost between $110 million and $120 million, according to an announcement Thursday by the three newspaper publishing companies.

Knight-Ridder and Media General announced plans last year for an $80 million mill, with an annual capacity of 130,000 tons. The announcement said Cox Enterprises is joining as an equal partner in the venture. The new plans call for a mill with an annual capacity of 150,000 tons.

mind behind two other television series. One — "Can You Top This," already syndicated nationally — is based on the old radio show that featured top comics telling jokes. The other project is an animated version of the Marx Brothers antics.

Also in the works is an autobiography entitled "I Remember Me" which Amsterdam hopes to have completed within two years.

Morey said it will trace his career from its start at 14, when he had his first taste of vaudeville. His older brother was a pianist on the vaudeville circuit. When a comic in the troupe fell ill, he asked Morey to fill in. Morey obliged.

"At 15 I was writing for Will Rogers," Morey continued proudly. "Later on, throughout the years, I wrote for all the great American comics — Bob Taylor, Milton Berle, Danny Thomas, Bob Hope and Red Skelton."

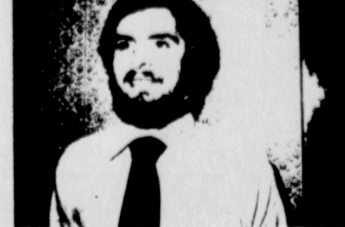

Amsterdam was a natural for his role in the popular TV series. Producer Carl Reiner was after a real gag writer to play a gag writer.

"They were looking for people who really played the parts in real life," Morey said.

ROTARY SPEAKER — Dr. Robert Phillips, right, introduced Dr. William Heintz to the Rotary Club Thursday. Dr. Heintz is professor emeritus of the College of Dentistry at Ohio State University. He is also active in track and field officiating and was at one time a track coach at OSU. He told Rotarians he was there when Jesse Owens set all the records. Dr. Heintz gave his observations on the past olympics. He talked on sportsmanship and how it relates to athletic and spectator conduct and attitude. He said he deplored the senseless violence that is in hockey, football and most of the active sports. New rules and regulations are in the making to clean up most sports.

On Books And Activities At The Library

"Ghost Town" by Charity Blackstock is the story of a British "Dear Abby," Elizabeth Ingram, in her late forties, but still an attractive woman, has lost one husband and one lover. When she learns her son is about to marry a woman older than himself, the accumulated stress pushes her towards a complete nervous collapse. Clearly, she has some old ghosts that need exorcising and she heads for the US and a small, deserted town in Arizona. This is the town that had seemed to haunt her lover, the best-selling author, Steve Olsen. In the mockup bar of an old film set for cowboy movies, she meets Paul Duncan, Steve's old friend, a once celebrated cowboy star. He is reliving his past glories, and through him she learns the meaning of ghost life. Only after she returns to England, and digs back into her past does she realize that Steve too was living a phantasy—his one bestselling novel.

The story of Judith Guest's, "Ordinary People" is quite simple. Conrad Jarrett, suffering unnecessary feelings of guilt over the accidental death of his brother, has attempted suicide and been confined to a mental institution. Now he is back home. The characters move through the accomplishments and blunders of their everyday lives, learning bit by bit that normalcy is no rock foundation for a family when it is shaken by the storm of the unusual.

In "Instead of Education: ways to help people do things better," John Holt suggests alternative methods of learning based on resource exchanges and shared experiences rather than enforced schooling. Some of Mr. Holt's message is new; all is interesting. Disciples of and antagonists to Mr. Holt's theories will probably square away for further battle.

Another book likely to stir controversy is "Me and Ralph" by David Sanford, managing editor of the New Republic. Sanford has known Nader since 1965 and "Unsafe at Any Speed." He is the reporter, who ten years ago and still a believer, caught the detective G. M. had on Nader's tail. He now exposes the "chinks" in consumer hero Ralph Nader's "armor." "The oddest thing about Nader," says

Sanford, is that his octopus organization "has become very much like the corporations he sees as his enemies." Though Sanford documents what he says, he predicts Nader will call the book, "false and scurrilous."

Everyone has heard it said that a doctor's worse patient is another doctor, and that's what William A. Nolen becomes in his latest book, "Surgeon Under the Knife." The doctor has been a typical prospective "Type A" heart victim—working too hard, playing too hard, always tense but driving himself. Even though he knew all the symptoms of a heart attack, he at first refused to recognize them when they were his own. Finally succumbing to pressure from family and friends he checked in for an examination and wound up facing surgery. Feeling he was being rushed, he left the hospital and went to another doctor. From here on the book is quite candid — critical of certain doctors, some hospital practices, high in praise for others and their new surgical techniques. It's an "afterthought" sort of book by a well informed man who discusses the options today's heart patient has before him. It tells quite frankly what can and does happen in post-operative care, but shouldn't.

For Western fans, "Red Grass" by Carter Travis Young is the story of Cullom Blain. He comes to Antelope Valley on the trail of one of the men who had raped and murdered his wife, and finds himself in the middle of a range war. He declines to join up with either side, but finds himself caught up in the enmity and killing.

"Man Outgunned" by Lewis B. Patten is the story of six gunmen who rob a bank in a sleepy Colorado town while most of the townspeople are at a Fourth of July picnic. They kill four people and kidnap a young girl. With only inexperienced townspeople to help him, the sheriff sets out in pursuit.

Veterans Questions Answered

EDITOR'S NOTE: Each week the Circleville Herald will publish a series of Questions and Answers of interest to veterans. These questions and answers are some of the many presented to James P. Shea, Pickaway County Veterans Service Officer. Any veteran desiring further information concerning his Veterans Administration benefits should contact the Veterans Service Officer at 219 South Court Street.

(Q.) Can a Veterans Administration decision be appealed?

(A.) Yes. A Substantive Appeal must be filed within 60 days from the date the Statement of the Case was mailed.

(Q.) My husband was killed in the Army in Vietnam and I would like to enroll in a well known university in Paris, France. Will VA help me do this?

(A.) Yes. If you are eligible for assistance under the Dependents' Educational Assistance Program, you may now attend approved foreign institutions of higher learning.

(Q.) Are children of deceased veterans eligible for GI home loans from the VA?

(A.) No. Although widows of servicemen killed during active duty or widows of veterans who died from service connected disabilities are eligible, children are not.

(Q.) I am a World War II veteran. Can I get dental treatment at a Veterans Administration Hospital?

(A.) The Veterans Administration provides dental treatment on a one time basis for veterans up to one year from their date of release from active duty. After that, dental treatment is provided only for service connected conditions.

(Q.) I've been having trouble lately with a stomach condition that developed during military service. I've been out of the service three years, and wonder if I can still apply for disability compensation from the Veterans Administration?

(A.) Yes. There is no deadline for filing a claim for a service connected disability.

Ford To Idle 16,000 Workers

CLEVELAND (AP) — Ford Motor Co. will idle about 16,000 workers, some of them for three weeks, as it closes four Cleveland area plants to retool for production of 1977 models, the company said today.

Meanwhile, the about 2,100 members of United Auto Workers Local 425 who work in Ford's van and truck plant in Avon Lake decided Tuesday to split away from that local to form their own.

The Ford spokesman said 10,000 workers will be furloughed for two weeks beginning Monday at the two engine plants and the stamping operation in Brook Park.

Being 'Born Again' Pondered

NEW YORK (AP) — Since Jimmy Carter says it has happened to him, many people are wondering just what being "born again" means. Those versed in the New Testament know, of course, but studies show there's considerable illiteracy in that area these days, even among Christians.

Some don't understand — or misjudge — the concept.

Like various other religious terms, it is "puzzling to modern minds," says the Rev. Dr. Henlee Barnette of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky. "Even some Christians have vague notions as to what the phrase actually means."

Sometimes, they associate it only with revival-tent emotionalism or a momentary, crowd-induced "high," bereft of rationality. But that wasn't its original Biblical context. Instead, it was the subject of a thoughtful, private conversation between Jesus and a fellow rabbi, Nicodemus.

"That which is born of the flesh is flesh, and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit," Jesus says in John 3:6-7. "Do not marvel that I said, 'You must be born anew.'"

Actually it's sort of a point of discovery about a person's place and purpose in life, how it all hangs together in the province of God, has direction and makes sense personally and universally, and an inner affirmation of it.

It's a little like Archimedes realizing the law of material mass and exclaiming, "Eureka! — I have found it!"

In spiritual rebirth, a person gains "a whole new perspective of the world," says Dr. Barnette, a professor of Christian ethics. "While it is the same old world, he sees it through new eyes."

It is an act of mind, will and emotion — and a definite new commitment to its impact. It can happen suddenly or through an extended period of cumulative experiences, deepening awareness and determination of the will. It is an awakening to meaning, in God's universal design; it is being "saved" from futility and meaninglessness.

"Salvation" is a much more common experience among contemporary Americans than many people seem to think," says the Rev. Dr. James T. Baker, a religious historian of Western Kentucky University.

"All in all, it's a perfectly natural experience that answers perfectly normal needs ... It is being called by God and responding."

While the experience often is caricatured as a cultic trait only of holiness groups, he says "this is not really the case." He cites material from scholars of Roman Catholic and other high liturgical churches to show they all embrace the concept, if not the particular terminology.

Sometimes it's called a "spiritual conversion" or "turning point" in a person's life by an act of will. The Rev. Dr. Frank H. Crumpler, evangelism secretary for the Virginia Baptist General Board, says it occurs when a person "voluntarily submits himself to the Lordship of Christ" and "determines that in the power of God's Spirit, he will live the Christian life day by day."

According to Ohio historians, there were 82 regular mail routes in the state in 1814, mostly by horseback, and newspapers were carried for one cent each.

Chessie System Plans Expansion

CLEVELAND (AP) — Two construction projects at a combined cost of $69 million were announced Thursday by the Chessie System.

The bulk of the funds—$56 million—will be used for the construction of a railroad terminal facility in Cincinnati. The remaining $13 million is earmarked for a track project to serve John's Creek area coal mines in eastern Kentucky.

Work on the terminal project, an automated classification yard, is set for this summer and will gradually be phased in over 5 or 6 years, the firm said.

A company spokesman said that Cincinnati is a hub of activity for the firm, with more routes converging there than at any other point on the system.

He added the new facility should greatly facilitate the inflow and outflow of trains through the area.

The new terminal, which will have a 40-train capacity, will also feature new shops for locomotive servicing and spot freight car repair, as well as pollution abatement facilities.

The firm said the construction will permit the abandonment of 18 miles of steeply graded track of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway to the northwest by providing capacity for all C&O trains to operate over the Baltimore and Ohio line.

The computer-controlled hump of the project, the raise point from which freight cars coast down to assigned positions in the yard below, will process cars at a rate of six per minute, and build 100 different classifications.

The other project calls for a nine-mile route leaving the Chesapeake and Ohio main line at Coal Run, Ky., and connecting to Scotts Branch and the John's Creek and Coon Creek subdivisions.

The new route is expected to save the firm equipment expenditures of an estimated $1.5 million a year, as well as enable them to gain substantial service improvements.

The firm said that the easier grades of the new track will permit larger trains, which will be able to travel more quickly and frequently.

The proposal also includes the construction of a 1,700-foot tunnel, five bridges, and two 110-car sidings east of Coal Run.

Gilligan Offers Help To Carter

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Ohio Gov. John Gilligan met with aides to Jimmy Carter this week and said he offered his assistance in Carter's presidential campaign. But Gilligan indicated he might be interested in a post in a Carter administration if the former Georgia governor wins.

"I'm interested in politics and government and being useful and helpful wherever I can," Gilligan said. "That doesn't mean I'm blowing bubbles about a cabinet position though, nor has anybody else that I know of."

Gilligan, who endorsed Carter before the Ohio primary, was attending the Democratic National Convention here as a member of the convention's platform committee and said he also was visiting with old friends.

Carter's failure to pick Sen. John Glenn of Ohio as his running mate drew no flak from Ohio delegates to the convention, although state Democratic Chairman Paul Tipps said he had hoped Glenn would be chosen because of his strength in Ohio.

Tipps said, however, the man Carter picked, Minnesota Sen. Walter F. Mondale, was his own second choice. Tipps said he thought Mondale added dimension to the party ticket, declaring that Mondale's strength with labor and ties with liberals would be helpful in the fall campaign.

U.S. Gov. Richard Celeste said the Carter-Mondale ticket "can carry Ohio with hard work."

Rep. Louis Stokes, D-21, said Mondale "is not that well identified in the black community, but the word is out he's a liberal. He'll do all right."

3 Arrested For Murder

CLEVELAND (AP) — Police said the body of missing Cleveland steelworker Joseph Tryjefaczka was found in Walton Hills Thursday night after two men and a woman were arrested on murder warrants in New Orleans.

Police declined to say how the 64-year-old Polish immigrant's body was found except that they acted on a tip.

Arrested in New Orleans were 19-year-old Cleveland Epler, Allen Keck, 23, and Keck's wife, Katherine, 21.

Police said the three had been living in the East 55th street building where Tryjefaczka lived until he disappeared 45 days ago.

The badly decomposed body was wrapped in a rug and was found in high weeds in the Cleveland suburb, police reported.

They said it had been rumored that Tryjefaczka kept $80,000 in cash and bonds in a shoe box in his room.

When police checked the room recently they said they found it bare except for an open suitcase containing several bloodstained $100 savings bonds.

Official Canvass Of Votes Held

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Secretary of State Ted W. Brown held the official canvass of votes cast in the June 8 primary election Thursday.

The canvass is the official compilation of the final vote tallies certified by the secretary of state's office from the 88 county boards of elections.

The results show Democrat Jimmy Carter as the leading vote getter with over 52 per cent of the total vote by Democratic electors, gaining 126 delegates of a possible 152.

President Ford took just over 55 per cent of the total Republican vote and garnered 91 of a possible 97 delegates over Ronald Reagan.

The results also show former U.S. Sen. Howard Metzenbaum took the Democratic U.S. Senate primary with 53.3 per cent of the vote Incumbent Republican Sen. Robert Taft was unopposed in the Republican primary.

Brown said the legal significance of the official canvass is that this begins the period of time during which recounts or protests may be filed.

Family Film To Be Shown

"Time To Run," a film that is a mixture of problems and solutions, will be shown at Emmett Chapel United Methodist Church at 318 Tarlton Road on Sunday. The feature, filmed in Eastmancolor by World Wide Pictures, will be shown once beginning at 8:30 p.m.

Filmed on location in the Southern California area, "Time To Run" stars Ed Nelson, Randall Carver, Barbara Sigel, Joan Winnill and Gordon Rigsby. Nelson plays Warren Cole, a hard driving success-oriented industrial and scientific engineer who, because of over-involvement with his work, has failed to communicate with his wife Fran, played by Joan Winnill, or their son Jeff, played by screen newcomer Randall Carver.

"Time To Run" allows the viewer to become involved on any one or more of the three different levels. Viewed purely as entertainment, it's the suspenseful story of Jeff's attempts at sabotage in the nuclear generating plant conceived, designed and managed by his father. Jeff strongly feels that the plant is a threat to the environment, and he puts his feelings in action.

Viewed on an emotional level, "Time To Run" is the deeply moving drama of the conflicts that are tearing a family apart - conflicts that develop between husband and wife, and between father and son. In an attempt to find freedom from the ever-growing hostilities, Jeff takes to the road, hoping to discover some meaning in his confused life.

Approached from a religious perspective, "Time To Run" is also a story of friction between Jeff and his girlfriend Michelle, played by Barbara Sigel, who is a familiar face to television viewers. Michelle has discovered a spiritual dimension in her life, and this aspect is very confusing to Jeff, who has little time for "a God who would allow war, hatred, and suffering on earth." But his life is shattered by an avalanche of personal problems, and he finds himself at a Jesus people gathering with Michelle, there he glimpses the possibility of a new life-style based on love and understanding.

"Time To Run" is a film that can help strengthen love relationships between people. It's a film that was made for families to attend — together.

Hoosier Panel Eyes Electricity

RICHMOND, Ind. (AP) — A congressional subcommittee hearing starting here today seeks to find out if the Federal Power Commission is helping to assure an adequate supply of electric power at reasonable rates, Subcommittee chairman Phil Sharp, D-Ind., said.

Sharp said he arranged for the Oversight and Investigations Subcommittee of the House Commerce Committee to hold the hearing in Richmond to "let the Federal Power Commission hear first hand exactly what problems are resulting from their extremely slow procedures."

City Board Nearly Completes Staffing

The Circleville Board of Education met early Thursday morning to complete staffing for the 1976-77 school term.

At the meeting, the board accepted the resignation of Rhonda Tennant, a teacher at Nicholas Drive Elementary, and employed four other teachers.

Employed were Karen Jean Waibel, to teach junior high vocal music, holder of a bachelor of music education degree from Miami University; Eloise Purdy, junior high English, bachelor of arts degree from Otterbein College and seven years experience; Janet Kay Whittaker, special education at South Court Elementary, bachelor of science degree from Ohio University and one year's experience; Linda Powers, bachelor of arts degree from Wittenberg University.

Ms. Purdy and Ms. Waibel both have five years training on the salary schedule.

The board also approved transferring Bonnie Gwinn from a Title I assignment to an elementary assignment. Fritz Jacobs, superintendent of the city schools, said this morning that there was one vacancy to fill for the fall, a Title I remedial reading teacher.

The following assignments and changes in assignments of coaching personnel were approved: Ronald Malone transferred from assistant freshman football coach to varsity assistant in football; James Diltz transferred from junior high track to

'Monkee' Takes Up Serious Acting

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — It's a giant step from the jangly strains of "Last Train to Clarksville" to the stark white multimedia package of book and music called "The Prison."

But Michael Nesmith has been surprising people ever since his commercially successful group, The Monkees, faded from the limelight.

The group, Nesmith and three other young men, had soared to fame with a string of hit records and a successful television show named for the group that featured its zany antics.

Nesmith says the group never had true control over its own work. He first shook up fans by telling a magazine reporter 10 years ago that the Monkees didn't play their own instruments.

Later, on his own, Nesmith recorded six articulate but relatively unsuccessful albums, and he appeared headed for a quiet, unnoticed end.

But ex-Monkee Nesmith, once the object of adoration for hordes of howling fans, was not ready to give up on his career.

Stebbins Arguments Completed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee finished hearing oral arguments Thursday on Gov. James A. Rhodes' request for the Senate to oust Gregory J. Stebbins as a member of the Ohio Industrial Commission.

Sen. Anthony J. Celebrezze Jr., D-25 Cleveland, who presided over the final day of proceedings, asked both sides in the dispute to submit written briefs by Aug. 5.

On the final day, counsel for Stebbins, an appointee of former Democratic Gov. John J. Gilligan, denied Rhodes' allegations that the former commission chairman gained financially by virtue of his position in a Columbus real estate transaction.

Stebbins did not take the stand, nor did his lawyers present witnesses.

The Republican governor submitted a list of charges to the committee, including one that alleged a Columbus workmen's compensation claimant purchased a house in which Stebbins was part owner after having received a lump sum settlement of about $18,000.

Witnesses who testified earlier at the request of the governor's counsel said Stebbins apparently acted alone in approving the industrial accident claim. He was chairman of the three-member agency at the time in 1973.

Phone Boost Date Given

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Recently approved increases on certain equipment of Ohio Bell Telephone Co. will go into effect Aug. 13.

The boost is part of the $200 million rate hike approved by the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio last week to bring in more revenue for the utility that serves three-quarters of the state.

The increases that will go into effect next month include:

—A $2.70 hike in monthly residential telephone bills.

—An increase in pay telephone charges from 10 cents to 20 cents.

—A 20-cent charge for directory assistance calls after a limit of three free calls a month. Customers will be able to get two listings per call.

—An increase in installation charges boosting the cost for residential phones to $36.50 from $16 and for business phones to $41.50 from $20.

—A 37 per cent increase in charges for long distance calls within the state.

A measured residential service will also be in effect that could reduce customers bills who use the telephone infrequently.

He moved to the California coastal community of Carmel south of here and with his wife, Kathryn, set up Pacific Arts Corp., a company with two records to its credit that seeks to teach the young artist of the wiles and pitfalls of corporate artistic control.

"Pacific Arts grew out of my experience in Los Angeles with various people involved in the corporate handling of raw artists and materials," he said in an interview.

"I was very intrigued with what appeared to be the problem between what an artist was doing and what the corporation would actually do with his work," the 33-year-old singer said.

"The Prison" is Nesmith's allegorical attempt to illustrate his feelings on artistic freedom. The music is good by itself, but works even more effectively as a soundtrack to the 68-page book illustrated with drawings by youngsters from nearby Monterey.

The idea is that when you read a book you play it like a movie in your mind," he said. "The music is like a soundtrack to that mental movie."

Pacific Art's second album is by a group called Kaleidoscope. They are the first — but not the last, Nesmith hopes — to benefit from Pacific Art's unique contract.

"The kind of contract we offer is so different that it would strike major firms as lunacy," he said.

The contract provides such unusual features as nonexclusivity, control of the master recording by the artist, quantity discounting for sales to distributors, payment of royalties for all records sold and a pledge that the record will always be available for sale.

Perhaps the key is permitting the artist to maintain control of the master copy, Nesmith said. This permits him to maintain artistic control of the ultimate package and makes him a part of the entire creative process, instead of cutting him out after the performance is recorded, Nesmith feels.

X-Ray Risks Denounced

WASHINGTON (AP) — An outside panel of experts wants the National Cancer Institute to halt routine X-ray screening of healthy women under age 50 for breast cancer. The panel contends the risks of the radiation may outweigh the benefits.

The tests, called mammography, have been given to about 250,000 women since 1972 under a program run jointly by the NCI and the American Cancer Society.

Health officials disagree about the risks of mammography. They plan to take up the issue at a meeting Monday.

NCI Director Dr. Frank Rauscher said the risks are likely to be "very small." But he said the benefits of screening "may not be as great as was thought when the project started."

However, an official of the American Cancer Society said Wednesday the society would be "extremely reluctant to discontinue projects that are bringing about the early detection of breast cancer in women, including women between 35 and 50."

The screening program combines both X rays and physical exams.

Production Credit Asso. At New Level

Production Credit Associations in the Fourth Farm Credit District have reached a new level in service to member-borrowers of the system.

The 39 PCAs in the four-state area recently topped $2 billion in loans outstanding, representing credit service to 94,668 member-borrowers across Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio and Tennessee.

According to Dr. Donald B. Roark, President of The Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Louisville, PCAs in the Fourth Farm Credit District have experienced many factors which have had a direct bearing on lending within the past three years.

Explaining, Dr. Roark pointed out that farm production costs have risen dramatically in recent months, thus stimulating the increased need for short and intermediate term credit in farm operations. "Inflation has not been a respecter of production inputs," said Roark.

Areas affected by higher prices have included fertilizer, feed, seed, machinery, fuel, and virtually all purchased items relating to farm production. The Fourth Farm Credit District has, in comparison with others, traditionally had a large number of member-borrowers. Records indicate that PCAs have also experienced an increased rate of lending to part-time farmers in recent years.

"Part-time" farmers are defined as individuals who derive the largest percentage of their income off-the-farm sources.

Production Credit Associations in the Fourth District were the first in the U.S. to achieve a service record to 79,050 member-borrowers at the $1 billion level. That event occurred during March, 1973.

As part of the nation-wide Farm Credit System, Production Credit Associations extend short-and intermediate-term credit to full and part-time farmers. The Federal Intermediate Credit Bank supervises PCA operations and procures loan funds which are used in PCA lending activity.

Wagnerian Festival Often Drew Ire

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Richard Wagner conceived of Bayreuth as "a kind of Washington of art" and helped finance his dream of an opera festival by composing a march for the Philadelphia Centennial celebration of 1876.

The philosopher Friedrich Nietzsche, a disenchanted Wagnerite, saw the Bayreuth festival as a "contemptible little German affair" overrun by "cultural cretins."

The Russian composer Peter Illich Tchaikovsky found to his dismay that "chops, baked potatoes and omelets were discussed much more eagerly than the music of Wagner" during intermissions in the marathon performances at Bayreuth.

For Adolf Hitler, the festival fed the Nazi myth of a heroic and noble Aryan race.

This summer, the Richard Wagner Opera Festival is marking its 100th birthday as controversial today as it was when the arrogant and caustic genius of Germanic opera chose the remote Franconian town of Bayreuth as the shrine of his musical and mythical cult.

Ninety-three years after the composer's death in Venice, Wagner's mystique and notoriety continues to live after him. The taint of Nazism added during Hitler's rise to power still clings to the unadorned walls of "the big barn" — as the Spartan opera house has been dubbed locally.

Nevertheless, this year's festival is sold out and 60,000 fans are expected to ascend the "Green Hill" for the centennial festival, which runs from July 24 to Aug. 28. A July 23 ceremony marking the centennial is to be attended by West Germany President Walter Scheel.

Highlight of this year's festival is to be a new production of Wagner's tetralogy "The Nibelung's Ring" by French director Patrice Chereau. Pierre Boulez will conduct the hidden orchestra.

After a century of family control, the festival opera house, the composer's archives and his Villa Wahnfried — Illusion's Rest — have been purchased for $4.8 million by a public foundation created in 1973 with local, Bavarian state and federal funds.

Wolfgang Wagner, the composer's 57-year-old grandson, still directs the annual opera festival. But once he steps down, the foundation could end the Wagner family reign by hiring an outsider to replace him.

"After a century in which Bayreuth has forfeited its central role as Wagnerian anitorium, the firm of Wagner and Co., internally divided as it is, would disappear from the management. This no longer would be a shame. From the artistic standpoint, 100 years of Bayreuth are quite enough," commented the West German news magazine Der Spiegel in a recent cover story on the Bayreuth centennial.

The stellar Wagnerian soprano Anja Silja, once closely associated with Wolfgang Wagner's late brother Wieland, has explained her estrangement from Bayreuth by saying,

"Artistically, I find Bayreuth today has little original to offer. What you see there you can see just as well in New York or in Munich. You don't have to go to Bayreuth."

It just seems like we can't get through a season of Youth League Ball without an unfortunate incident taking place — And it seems that another one took place the other night during one of the girls softball games.

From the information that we have been able to gather and piece together one of the young girls was subjected to verbal abuse and harassment to such an extent that she broke down and cried — The trouble did not come from girls on the other team — But from several adults in the crowd.

We are still trying to determine just what kind of a person would do this to a youngster but haven't been able to come up with anything in the dictionary that would begin to describe them.

A lot of people put in a lot of hard work — all gratis — to make these programs work and provide enjoyment for the boys and girls during the summer months — But, it just takes a few ugly episodes to send all the good work down the drain.

We are not taking sides with any team but we definitely are taking side with the kids. They should never be embarrassed and certainly never be subjected to any form of abuse.

Any time that these things happen, we have found that it is never the kids themselves that cause it but a few adults who seem to get a kick out of hurting a youngster.

Something should be done about these situations — Maybe the managers of the two teams could get together and demand that it be stopped — Perhaps the umpire could make a report to the league officials and let them take whatever action they can to put an end to it — Maybe these are not the real answers but they just might help — And anything that puts an end to these things, is good for the kids and the adults — Because most of the adult fans are really decent people and we are certain they don't like it any more than we do when these things happen.

The young girl who from our findings seemed to be the main target of the attack must remember one thing — The few people who made it miserable for you did it for one reason — It seems that fans vent their feelings on the best player the other team has because they are afraid of them — So indirectly, they paid you a compliment.

As for the hecklers — We bet that you sit front row center in church on Sunday morning — But there is someone who sits a lot higher and he knows what goes on the rest of the week — And in our book — We start out to have contempt for you and find that you really deserve pity.

Our "fearless" forecast — We think that Johnny Miller can put things back to back and be the killer in the Westchester Classic.

Until next time, have a nice day-be a good sport.

Registration for the State Seal Golf Tournament to be held Saturday and Sunday at Running Fox Golf Course in Chillicothe will end 8 p.m. today. There will be an exhibition match, open to the public, involving two professionals and two top amateurs beginning 6 p.m. today. Harry Hoffer, pro at Running Fox, will take part in the exhibition.

Expos Edge Cincy Reds, 4-3

CINCINNATI (AP) — "It's a matter of pride now," said Steve Rogers.

The Montreal Expos, baseball's worst team in the first midway mark of the 1976 season, had just launched the second half with a 4-3 victory over the world champion Cincinnati Reds Thursday night.

"What are we, 26 games below .500?" asked Rogers after beating the Reds 4-3. "We can't dwell on the first half we had. We can't focus on the Reds, but rather on our own performances."

Rogers, winless since May and out of action a month while mending a broken finger, halted the Expos losing streak at seven games, snapping a fivegame slide of his own.

It's been that kind of a season for Rogers and the Expos.

On May 25, the 26-year-old right-hander broke the little finger on his pitching hand when he slapped his glove at the bat rack after a frustrating outing against the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"I would have deserved what happened if I had punched the wall," said Rogers. "But this was a freaky thing." The injury put him on the 21-day disabled list "just as I was reaching my mid-season form."

A 1-0 loss to Houston Sunday dropped his record to 2-8.

"He's definitely been pitching better than his record indicates," said Manager Karl Kuehl.

Rogers, the National League's rookie pitcher of the year in 1973, scattered six hits in 8 1-3 innings to hand the Reds their third straight loss.

Kuehl said he held a pregame meeting "to see if we can change our thinking. Everybody was pressing too much."

Rogers said the three-day All-State Game rest "broke the atmosphere."

The Expos took a 1-0 lead in the fourth only to see it evaporate in the bottom half of the inning when the Reds scored three times, two on shortstop Dave Concepcion's seventh home run of the season.

Montreal tied it up in the seventh with two runs and jumped on reliever Will McEnaney in the eighth for the go-ahead run.

Larry Parrish, hitting only .209 going into the game, drove in two runs, including the game-winner in the eighth. He singled off Rawly Eastwick to score Jerry White, who had singled and moved to third on pinch hitter Bombo Rivera's single.

Reliever Dale Murray preserved the victory for Rogers, retiring the last two batters when the Reds mounted a threat in the ninth. He struck out pinch hitter Johnny Bench to end the game.

McEnaney, who topped the Reds bullpen last year with a 2.47 earned run average, continued to take his lumps. The loss dropped his record to 1-4 and sent his ERA beyond 4.20.

Ken Griffey extended his hitting streak to 14, beating out a grounder for his 20th infield hit of the season.

Tonight, Fred Norman, 7-2, attempts to boost his career record at Riverfront Stadium to 30-6 when he faces Don Stanhouse, 6-4.

Dave Kingman is in the groove; Dusty Baker hopes he has found one.

"My home runs come in bunches," said Kingman, who smacked his 31st of the season — tops in the majors — Thursday night in leading the New York Mets to a 3-1 victory over the Houston Astros.

Baker finally connected on only his second four-bagger of the year in helping the Los Angeles Dodgers defeat the Chicago Cubs 5-2.

"It's the longest time I can remember going without a home run," Baker said. "I had a streak last year of eight weeks and I couldn't believe that."

Baker, who also hit a runscoring single, last hit a home run in the opening game of the season.

In other National League games Thursday, Philadelphia defeated San Francisco 5-3, Pittsburgh crushed Atlanta 13-1, Montreal nipped Cincinnati 4-3 and St. Louis edged San Diego 2-1.

Kingman's fourth homer in his last four games came after John Milner walked and wiped out Houston's 1-0 lead.

Dodgers 5, Cubs 2

The Dodgers struck early when loser Rick Reuschel opened the bottom of the first by hitting the first two batters. Los Angeles went on to score four runs as winning pitcher Doug Rau scattered five hits.

"Everybody played relaxed," said Rau. "Really, it's the first time we've had any days off."

Phillies 5, Giants 3

Tim McCarver, who sees only spot action, drove in three runs to give the Phillies their victory over San Francisco.

McCarver's single in the sixth broke a 3-3 tie, giving lefthander Steve Carlton, 10-3, his fifth straight decision.

Pirates 13, Braves 1

With Bill Robinson providing the most muscle — a two-run homer — Pittsburgh exploded for 12 runs in the first five innings to crush Atlanta. Sloppy Atlanta fielding aided the Pittsburgh onslaught as Darrell Chaney bobbled a two-out, bases-loaded grounder in the second and four runs followed. The Pirates also sent two runs across the plate in the third, one in the fourth, five in the fifth and one in the eighth.

Cards 2, Padres 1

A one-out double by Joe Ferguson in the ninth broke up a 1-1 deadlock and sparked St. Louis Cardinals to victory over San Diego.

Ferguson's double scored Don Kessinger from second base, handing the Padres their fifth straight loss.

St. Louis' Al Hrabosky relieved in the bottom of the ninth to abort a Padres rally and record his eighth save of the season.

Jim Palmer, Baltimore Blank Angels, 4-0

By ALEX SACHARE

AP Sports Writer

Jim Palmer would like to set the record straight.

"I never called Darrell Johnson an idiot," said Palmer, one of a number of top American League pitchers who were not selected by the Boston manager to participate in Tuesday night's All-Star Game.

"Someone else said it — I just agreed with him."

As if to underscore the error of Johnson's ways, the 30-year-old Baltimore ace blanked the California Angels 4-0 Thursday night on three singles, becoming the first 12-game winner in the American League.

After a slow start, Palmer — the Cy Young Award winner two of the last three years — has won six of seven decisions since June 15. His record is up to 12-8, his earned run average down to 2.89.

In other American League night games, Detroit edged Oakland 3-2 in 11 innings, Minnesota beat Cleveland 5-2 and Chicago defeated Milwaukee 5-3 in 10 innings. In two twilight doubleheaders, the New York Yankees swept Texas 7-6 and 6-4, the second game in 10 innings, and Kansas City split with Boston, winning the opener 12-5 but dropping the nightcap 2-1.

Palmer was overpowering against California, giving up just three singles — and two of those runners were erased on double plays. Reggie Jackson drove in three runs, two of them on his 10th home run of the season, and Al Bumbry scored three runs for Baltimore, which has won its last five outings.

Afterwards, Palmer said it's no surprise the National League has won 13 of the last 14 All-Star Games.

"I'm sick and tired of losing to the National League, but it's understandable," he said. "They take their best players and we don't — and it doesn't just apply to pitchers."

Yankees 7-6, Rangers 6-4

Carlos May's three-run homer and Mickey Rivers' three hits and two runs batted in powered the Yankees to victory in the opener despite a shaky seventh inning during which relief ace Sparky Lyle faced three batters and walked them all, forcing in two runs. But with the bases loaded and New York's lead down to one run, Dick Tidrow came on and got Roy Howell on an inning-ending grounder.

Tidrow also picked up a save in the second game, coming on in the 10th inning to get the final out after Sandy Alomar's two-run homer — his first home run of the season — put the Yankees on top.

Tigers 3, A's 2

A's center fielder Bill North dropped his second fly ball of the game with the bases loaded and two out in the 11th inning, allowing pinch-runner Mickey Stanley to score with the winning run. The Tigers loaded the bases in the 11th on a hit batsman and two walks. Oakland relief ace Rollie Fingers got Alex Johnson to bounce into a forceout and then struck out Aurelio Rodriguez. Pinch-hitter Dan Meyer lofted a fly ball to center and North — who dropped one in the third inning to let in one run — mishandled it as Stanley came home.

Twins 5, Indians 2

Twins infielder Roy Smalley, who went into Thursday night's game with a .212 batting average and just 14 runs batted in, collected three hits and knocked in three runs. He cracked a two-run triple in the second inning and squeezed home another run with a bunt in the fifth as Minnesota dealt Cleveland its ninth loss in the last 10 games.

White Sox 5, Brewers 3

Ray Sadecki relieved Milwaukee starter Jim Slaton with two out in the 10th inning and Pat Kelly greeted him with a two-run homer to the upper deck in right-center, giving Chicago the victory in a game in which all the runs came in on homers. Earlier, Chet Lemon had a solo shot and Jack Brohamer a two-run blast for Chicago while George Scott hit a three-run homer for Milwaukee.

Royals 12-1, Red Sox 5-2

Bob Stinson drove in four runs and Jaime Quirk knocked in three in the opener as Kansas City pounded four Boston pitchers for 16 hits.

The Red Sox came back to take the second game, scoring both their runs in the sixth inning and then hanging on behind the pitching of rookie Rick Jones and Jim Willoughby.

White, Graham Hold Westchester Lead

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — Carlton "Sluggo" White and David Graham would figure to be breathing easy today after shooting eight-under-par 63s in Thursday's first round of the $300,000 Westchester Golf Classic.

No such luck for the 27-year-old White, a comparative unknown on the Professional Golfers Association tour, and Graham, a five-year veteran who hasn't won since 1972.

Instead of a three- or fourstroke margin, White and Graham went off in the second round with just a one stroke lead over Tom Watson and Mike Wynn, and only two strokes ahead of Mike Hill and Bruce Listzke.

The pros just ate up Westchester Country Club's 6,603 yard course. Of the 168 starters, 23 played in par and 55 lowered the 36-35-71 regulation figures. The scorers almost ran out of red numbers to indicate birdies. There were two at 66, one 67, seven 68s and sixteen 69s, in an incredible round of shooting.

The Westchester tournament is a PGA designated event, which means all the tour's stars have to play. So all but the ailing Lee Trevino are in the chase for the $60,000 first prize in the 72 hole test. The field has the appearance of a U.S. Open, although obviously they are not playing an Open course.

Three strokes off the pace in the second round were 44-year-old Gay Brewer, who shot a 34-32-66, that included nine birdies and four bogeys, and Fuzzy Zoeller, low qualifier in the 1974 PGA school, who finished a 34-32-66 with five birdies.

Hubert Green, who has won three tournaments this year and leads the money winners with $187,427, shot 33-34-77, carding four birdies and the rest pars.

Johnny Miller, who last week won the British Open, shot par 77, missing two putts inside three feet.

"I'm not tired, but there is a definite letdown," said Miller. "For a player, the hardest round to play is the first round you play after you win. This time zone is hard too, coming back from over there. My body is a little mixed up."

Arnold Palmer shot a two under 69, and said he felt he was playing much better. He was encouraged by his putting.

Jack Nicklaus was at par 71, and expressed the opinion that despite the 63s and 64s, the tournament was far from over. He said he was playing well, but in recent weeks has been unable to put his game together. He lamented about a lost stroke here and a lost stroke there.

Other tour leaders still in the chase were Ben Crenshaw and Al Geiberger at 69, Hale Irwin and J.C. Snead at 70, and Don January in at 71.

Metcalf Leads Men's Amateur Tourney

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Consistent Taylor Metcalf, having just carded a par 72 Thursday to hang onto his lead in the Ohio Men's Amateur Golf Tournament, said confidently, "I think I can win this."

The 26-year-old salesman from Cincinnati said the "not too long" 6,600-yard Springfield Country Club layout is "the kind of course I play well."

Hubert Green, who has won three tournaments this year and leads the money winners with $187,427, shot 33-34-77, carding four birdies and the rest pars.

Johnny Miller, who last week won the British Open, shot par 77, missing two putts inside three feet.

Olympics On; U.S. To Participate

MONTREAL (AP) — The clouds cleared from Montreal today and two facts stood out bright and clear. The Olympic Games will go on and the United States will compete in them. The Americans abandoned their idea of possibly pulling out in sympathy with the Taiwanese. One of the first to hail the decision was C.M. Yang, coach of the Taiwan team.

"I would have felt terrible if the United States had pulled out, because it would be such a disappointment to all their athletes, and all because of us," Yang said.

The Taiwanese problem still was not finally solved. The International Olympic Committee (IOC) still had to persuade the Taiwanese to drop the name "Republic of China" in the opening parade, though the Canadian government has now backed down and said they can use their flag and anthem.

But the decision by the United States to go ahead and compete removed a fear that the Games might disintegrate.

Philip O. Krumm, of Kenosha, Wis., 69-year-old president of the U.S. Olympic Committee, who has been at the center of the Taiwan crisis all week, announced the decision to keep the team in the Games.

Krumm has been the peacemaker between the idealistic IOC, iron-willed Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau and the proud Taiwanese delegation. He backed the IOC to the hilt in its defense of the Olympic charter, but tried to persuade the Canadian government and the Taiwanese to give a little.

More than 40 Taiwanese have been held up in the United States, denied entry visas because they would not bow to the Canadian demand to drop their name, flag and anthem.

For two days Krumm thought his mission was heading for failure. Neither the government nor the Taiwanese would give an inch.

But Trudeau, after weeks of refusing to change his position, suddenly gave way Thursday and said the Taiwanese could use their flag and anthem.

Krumm had been holding a club over Trudeau, saying the U.S. team might pull out if the Taiwanese were not allowed to take their place in the Games.

It was a strong weapon. Nobody can picture an Olympic Games without the United States taking part. There were fears that if the Americans pulled out other countries would follow, and the Games, which Montreal has planned for six years at an estimated cost of $1.5 billion, could fall apart.

Krumm and Lord Killanin, president of the IOC, were in complete harmony on one point. They thought of the athletes first. "We feel the athletes, who have given so much time and dedication to preparing themselves for these games, deserved consideration," Krumm said. "We had that in mind in deciding not to withdraw."

Killanin has insisted all along that the 10,000 athletes expected to compete at Montreal are the first consideration. He said that was why the IOC stopped short of cancelling the games, or withdrawing its recognition, in the face of what he has bitterly denounced as political interference by Ottawa.

The IOC hoped the Taiwan affair would be solved Friday. First it had to vote to change its rules and allow the Taiwanese to march in the opening parade as "Taiwan" and not as the Republic of China. A two-thirds majority among the 69 IOC members present is needed.

Then the Taiwanese had to be persuaded to accept the idea. There was a precedent at the Rome Olympics in 1960, when the Taiwanese marched as "Formosa" but unfurled a banner saying "under protest."

McCormack Happy With Bengals

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — A former National Football League head coach is now an assistant coach, taking orders instead of giving them. Cause for disappointment, right?

"No," says Mike McCormack, new offensive line coach of the Cincinnati Bengals. "I don't consider it a letdown. I consider coming here almost a promotion."

McCormack's "promotion" came from the Philadelphia Eagles, for whom he was the fourth head coach in four years.

Taking over a 2-11-1 team in 1973, the former All-Pro offensive tackle guided the Eagles to seasons of 5-8-1 and 7-7. The latter record was Philadelphia's first nonlosing season in eight years.

Then in 1975, the Eagles won just four games and McCormack was fired. McCormack won't rap his former club's management. "Over there we had to rebuild," he said. "Here we're pretty set. We have stable people."

McCormack, who filled the spot created by Coach Bill Johnson's elevation to the head coaching spot, is a member of an important but not-so-exclusive club: Paul Brown disciples now coaching in the NFL.

Thirty-five NFL coaches—eight of them head coaches—either played or coached under Brown, who ended an illustrious coaching career this year to concentrate solely on general manager duties.

Williamsport News

By EILEEN EASTERDAY, Phone 986-3481

The ideal time to get a neighborhood news column written is early in the week since there are usually a number of other activities requiring attention toward the end of the seven-day span, however, when a person is naturally inclined to be "do-less" such as I and when the weather is so terrifically warm then any zip I might have becomes zapped and my accomplishments are zilch. The bottom line reads Easterday barely made it under the wire again.

Someplace I read once that the more things change the more they stay the same and youngsters enjoying visits with grandparents surely must fit this remark. And so it is for young Brent Hosler of Circleville who has brightened the past several days for grandmother Una Higman.

Brent is a son of Harry and Myrna Higman Hosler. Little brother Scott will be glad when Brent returns home. More excitement prevails at the Higman home because Una is busily readying for a joyous reunion with son Gary, who is a career U.S. Navy man, and his new bride. They are expected in August. Gary's tours of duty have taken him over the world and it has been some time since his last visit home.

Craig and Brian Lovensheimer of Florence, S. C. are here to be with grandparents John and Edna West as is their annual summer custom. And as grandkids-grandparents this is a real mutual admiration society. The boys sister Lisa will arrive a little later and add the sunshine of her charm to the happy grandparents hearts.

Mark and Peggy Jo Steinhauser Connelly and family from Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. had a brief but joyful visit with grandmother Emma Puffinbarger and Harry on Wednesday of this week. They had been with relatives at Marion, Ohio and were enroute to Tennessee to be with family before returning home.

A week ago Harry and Emma were pleased to have her son Marion Steinhauser and his Gretchen from Winter Haven, Florida here for several days. We very nearly "looked up" the Steinhausers while in their area but got sidetracked with other interests and didn't. Just as well since they were here in Ohio.

Attention all you friends and former classmates of Jill Steinhauser Garmire!!! Jill is in the hospital and has had major surgery and wouldn't it be positively great to shower her with a deluge of cheer cards? Please get on the stick and hustle a card off to her, quick, quick, quick. Send to Jill Garmire, Room 259-1, Pawating Hospital, Niles, Mich. 49120.

And I will repeat once more that you need not really know a person to send a card wishing them well. What a warm feeling of caring it is to receive good wishes and being so far from family and old friends just think how wonderful it would be to hear from home area folks?

Jill's parents, John and Minnie Steinhauser of Circleville and formerly from our town have just returned home from being with her during her surgery. Sister Jonda

Livestock Rustlers Busy In Indiana

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—The idea of livestock rustlers may dredge up images of the Wild West for moviegoers, but not for southern Indiana hog farmers who have cause to worry about their animals.

"We think of horse thievery and cattle rustling and that sort of stuff as being part of an earlier day — almost pre turn-of-the-century," Lt. Gov. Robert D. Orr said. But modern day rustling rings have turned their efforts to hogs and have farmers so frightened they're afraid to leave their livestock unattended.

State Police Capt. Stan Kenny, chief of investigations, said, "The major problem that we are aware of is down in the Jasper district (which includes Jasper, Dubois, Crawford, Daviess, Knox, Martin, Orange, Perry, Pike and Spencer counties)."

Steinhauser accompanied her parents to Niles and will remain until the latter part of July to be with little John Garmire who is now all of five years old while his mommy is hospitalized and his daddy Jeff is working. On her return home Jonda will begin preparation for the coming school year where she is on the faculty of the Delaware school system.

Bessie (Mrs. Darl) Miller is recuperating at her home from a recent heart attack and was released from University Hospital after being a patient there for a lengthy stay. Members of her family are with her round the clock. Bessie wishes to thank each and everyone for remembering her with cards, prayers, visits, flowers, gifts and so many thoughtful acts of kindness extended to her. She sincerely appreciates knowing that so many care.

Also home from Berger Hospital is Inez Lingo who underwent treatment for a stroke. She, too, is recuperating at her home and her daughter Fern Mellinger of Wooster is here to care for her. Son Lester and his wife cared for her in their Circleville home for a few days upon her discharge from the hospital.

Marabel Drummond and comely daughters Connie, Sandee, and Joy Lynn along with her mother Kathleen (Mrs. Doyen) Bode and her aunt Kathryn (Mrs. Roy) Schooley both from Adelphi were off to Fenton Glass at West Virginia and the Marietta museum on Wednesday.

It was a first time trip there for all but Marabel and it had been several years and lots of changes since she had last been in that area. It is an interesting one day sojourn with lovely scenery and good highways and easy directions so long as you know which way is east and which is west. Aw! shucks, Marabel, it was too good to keep quiet. So kill me! And she will!

No matter what, the show must go on is a show biz adage and it's a little like that with our canasta club, I guess because we still played and Pearl Cochenour was hostess even though hubby Pete was in Berger Hospital. He is a patient there for the purpose of tests and observation and as is typical of the good guy that Pete is he insisted on Pearl having her club as planned. We all are hopeful that his hospitalization testings will prove to be inconsequential.

Carrying home the prizes were Esther Picklesimer, high; Helen Timmons, traveling; Jeanine Hamman, door and Pearl took low. Helen and Jeanine were subbing for regulars Dorothy Carle and Margene Looney. Also playing were Colleen Justice, Jackie Hopper, Mae Litter, and yours truly.

What does the bicentennial year and the expression Keep America Beautiful mean to you? Well, to four youngsters in our village ranging from kindergarten age to third grade it meant taking a bushel basket and picking up all the litter in just their one block. Would you believe they gathered over two baskets full? The concerned and good citizenship award definitely belongs to Rhonda Dollison, Missy Howell, Robbie Painter and LuAnn Howell. They have truly shown the real spirit of helping to keep America beautiful. Perhaps this will encourage others to do their share, too.

The very next time you start to carelessly toss a candy wrapper, empty cigarette pack, pop can and so forth why not STOP and THINK how really ugly it all adds up. Put it in a trash barrel instead and do your part in keeping our town and our corner of America beautiful. Practically everyone in town has a trash barrel and surely no one would object to such items being placed in them instead of tossed on the street or in yards. On our corner we seem to be the broken glass belt. In other words by the time the bottle is emptied the consumer has reached our corner and wham-O the bottle gets tossed out to smash into smithereens. It does get mighty tiresome trying to sweep up the pieces. Frankly, we have never been able to stay ahead. I hold firm to the happy thought that some day one of the culprits will be identifiable.

Thadd Howell, son of Jim and Betty Howell, is experiencing almost what could be classed as a dream come true. Interested in art work (and quite good at it) Thadd has hopes of becoming a commercial artist after completing his senior year coming up at Westfall and further education in his chosen field. Well, he was given the golden opportunity of working in a commercial art firm at Toronto, Canada this summer. A good friend of the Howells, Bob Teringo, has his own Canadian firm and extended the offer to Thadd who didn't hesitate in accepting. He flew by Allegheny airlines to Buffalo and due to an air strike in Canada he journeyed on to Toronto by bus. Thadd is a member of the Teringo household this summer, too, being welcomed by Bob's wife Dorothy and children Candy and Bobby. He will return in August in time to attend Westfall band camp. He is gaining valuable experience and is being "apprenticed" in all phases of the business. He has even had an assignment which we hope gets accepted and we can all point with pride and say "our Thadd did that".

Be with you again next week, the Lord willing. Take care.

Big Firms Dominate Sales To Russia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Recent grain sales to the Soviet Union suggest that farmerowned cooperatives still are a long way from cracking the lucrative Russian market, which has been dominated by huge multinational companies for many years.

Although some large regional co-ops are making renewed attempts to pool and coordinate sales so they can develop a larger share of the export trade, a new report by the Agriculture Department says serious deficiencies still persist in the way cooperatives are working.

"The major problem in cooperative export activity is fragmentation and lack of coordination within the

33rd Hughes Will Surfaces In Ohio

CLEVELAND (AP) — A Cleveland tax consultant who says he is director of the Sickle Cell Anemia Society of America has produced another purported will of the late billionaire Howard Hughes.

Azi Kiwe Mkumba said Thursday the will which names him and his society among the beneficiaries arrived anonymously in the mail in an envelope with a Chicago postmark.

Also listed as beneficiaries are the Cleveland Clinic Foundation and its board chairman.

A court official in Las Vegas said he, too, received a copy of the purported will and that it has been filed, along with 32 other purported Hughes wills that preceded it.

Golf Ball Divers Nabbed

Charges of petit theft and criminal trespassing have been filed against four men who were caught diving for golf balls at the Fox Fire Golf Course.

Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Jim Fite arrested the four men and confiscated 476 golf balls they allegedly gathered from the bottom of water hazards on the course.

The men were John W. Rohal, 22, Columbus; Keith Keeran, 26, Columbus; David A. Kraft, 22, Westerville; and Christopher J. Crawford, 22, Westerville.

They are being held in Pickaway County Jail under $975 bond awaiting arraignment.

Deputy Fite was originally dispatched to investigate a disabled vehicle on Route 104 near the golf course 1:15 a.m. Friday.

The deputy found no one around the van and summoned Fox Fire supervisor Harold Haggard, who allegedly spotted the men diving for balls in a pond located on the rear of the property.

But the men, seeing Haggard in a golf cart, apparently fled. Deputy Fite and Haggard searched the course in carts, and then decided to wait for the men at their van.

They were arrested about 100 yards from their vehicle.

5 Bishops Assigned

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP) — Five bishops were assigned new areas during the closing session of the North Central Jurisdiction of the United Methodist Church Thursday evening.

Assigned to the Iowa area for a four-year term was Bishop Lance Webb, who has been in central Illinois for the past 12 years.

Bishop James S. Thomas will move from Iowa to the east Ohio area, and Bishop Dwight E. Lodder was reassigned from Michigan to west Ohio.

Bishop Leroy C. Hodapp, elected during the three-day convention, was assigned to central and southern Illinois, while Bishop Edsel A. Ammons, also newly-elected, was assigned to Michigan.

Bishop James Armstrong of the Dakotas was reassigned for another four years.

Murder Conviction Upheld By Court

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The first degree murder conviction of Walter Banks of Indianapolis in the death of an elderly woman was affirmed by the Indiana Supreme Court.

Banks argued his confession to the murder of Lucille Hosmer, 78, of Indianapolis, should not have been admitted at his trial because it was made without consultation with his parents. Banks was convicted and sentenced to life in prison in Hamilton Superior Court.

The court said Thursday Banks was 18 at the time and therefore not covered by Indiana law requiring parental consultation for juveniles.

Ohio GOP Delegation Readied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Peace prevailed Thursday at the organizational meeting of Ohio's delegation to the Republican National Convention, probably because strength lies in numbers.

The pro-President Ford contingent — he has 91 delegates to challenger Ronald Reagan's six — came from the closed meeting with all officers and convention committee members named from the incumbent's ranks.

Jane Fox, a Reagan delegate from the 17th Congressional District, was nominated for membership on the convention's platform committee, but lost to Joan Davidson of Columbus on a roll call that wasn't divulged to the press.

McGough, elected chairman of the delegation, said there were no complaints or debate from the Reagan delegates. "They might have asked some questions about hotels and seating, but that was about all," he said.

Gov. James A. Rhodes, McGough, and the GOP State Central and Executive Committee came out for the President months ago. They have used their leadership to make the President's backing in Ohio nearly impenetrable for Reagan, despite the Californian's substantial popular support (45 per cent in the June 8 primary).

Earlier Thursday, McGough appeared at a news conference with Mary Louise Smith, the GOP national chairwoman, and she came close to an open Ford endorsement. "I've said all along he (Ford) would be our candidate," she said. But at another point, she admonished a newsman "you're asking me to evaluate the candidates."

Mrs. Smith and McGough expressed jointly their pleasure in the selection of Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., by Jimmy Carter as the Democratic presidential nominee's running mate. Mrs. Smith said Mondale represents "the Democratic establishment he (Carter) truly can't do without." She called the Democratic ticket "vulnerable, and we are going to take full

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Do not neglect responsibilities in pursuit of pleasure — or through sheer boredom. Also, be tactful in making requests, not demanding.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Some admonitions now: Be forbearing with trying and irritating situations, and DO wait until the time is ripe before acting on a decision, no matter how well-considered.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): You have instinctive know-how in many areas, but may tend to get off the track now, unwisely go off on tangents. Concentrate on essentials; evaluate all situations carefully.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Fine deeds of the past could now bear fruit beyond your expectations. Travel and romance in high favor.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): If planning changes, make certain first that they are for the better: also that they meet with the approval of others involved. A time for making ALL moves thoughtfully.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Use good judgment in all situations: restrain vigor when it seems politic, be aggressive when such tactics are required.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): You are usually more than competent in handling difficulties "on your own," but this is a day when you may need a little advice. If so, seek it from competent sources only.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Stellar influences now encourage your best endeavors and promote happiness in your personal life. Do not fear the outcome of anything you undertake. This can be YOUR day.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Gear yourself to a pace adequate for THIS DAY'S program and keep it there, neither slackening nor hurrying. Romance and friendship favored in the p.m.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Good planetary influences. You can manage in better-than-ordinary fashion, yet must take precautions not to underestimate or overevaluate new propositions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Generous aspects now stimulate your interests and proclivities, and your personality should make itself felt where it counts. Enjoy the day!

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Some situations may be getting out of hand. This is the time to use your wits and clear up matters insofar as YOU are personally concerned.

YOU BORN TODAY are a loyal and conservative individual, endowed with outstanding integrity and a tremendous sense of responsibility. Twins Trip Tribe, 5-2

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Minnesota's Eddie Bane has given up the ghost as a fastball pitcher and now it's the American League hitters who are getting spooked by the chunky left-hander.

"Good deception," said the 5-foot-10, 180-pound Bane after he stopped Cleveland's fading Indians 5-2 Thursday night. "It's hard to tell yourself that you just can't rare back and throw it by these guys."

Bane was bitter about being sent back to Minnesota's Pacific Coast League farm club at Tacoma, Wash., this spring, but Manager Gene Mauch felt the youngster needed more work.

"Sure I was mad," said Bane, now 2-2. "But I think he (Mauch) and I agree that you don't have to be a flame-thrower to win here."

Bane scattered six hits before giving way to Bill Campbell after getting the first man out in the eighth.

1. Card of Thanks

In the midst of our sorrow, the loss of our dear husband and uncle Dave Horn, we cannot forget our many friends, relatives and neighbors, who through their kindness and sympathy helped to ease our grief.

We wish to extend our most sincere thanks and gratitude.

Our appreciation to Jack Wise, Defenbaugh Wise Funeral Home, Rev. Fraizer and Rev. Flowers, the pallbearers, all friends who helped in our home, to Circle 4, Good Shepherd Church, neighbors and all for the delicious food provided. To our multitude of friends, Mr. Jacobs and Mary Ellen Rader, Board of Education, school staff and community for the flowers and memorial gifts to Community Church and Heart Fund.

We pray God's richest blessing on you all.

Rosemary Horn and Family

I would like to thank my family, friends, and neighbors for their kindness shown me during my hospital stay.

Mrs. Wayne (Donna) Smith

Richards is a member of the National Farm Foundation Board and the National Top Farmers Advisory Board. He also is Vice President of the Ohio State Agricultural Alumni Association. Army To Dispose Of Gas Rockets DUGWAY PROVING GROUND, Utah (AP) — After seven years, the Army's chemical warfare test station here finally is getting rid of some lethal scrap — rockets with warheads containing nerve agent.

The nerve agent, GB, is better known as nerve gas, though Army scientists insist it really isn't gas. It's in warheads of partially destroyed M55 rockets that Dugway began burning — the approved method of disposal then — in 1967.

The work was halted in 1969 when the Army declared a moratorium on open air release of toxic chemicals. Lethal chemicals were blamed the year before for the death of 4,500 sheep.

The 36,000 rockets, all burned at least once, have been in unsealed pits since then, and the Army estimates 569 still have warheads intact, each containing 10.5 pounds of nerve agent.

The rockets, designed for offensive, antipersonnel warfare, became obsolete with United States policy against offensive use of chemical and biological weapons. As post-Korean War hardware, destruction was required because time corrodes warheads and makes seals imperfect.

Dugway officials say some of the six-foot rockets have had minor leaks of nerve agent, but that constant monitoring has shown no effect on the environment.

A new disposal technique was worked out and cleared through federal environmental channels after the Army formed its Chemical Demilitarization and Installation Restoration Office in 1972.

One by one, the 61 pits, each about 100 feet long and seven feet wide, are being sifted and cleared, the land restored. Crews working from airtight armored personnel carriers use long, movable arms to lift the rockets piece by piece for examination.

If a piece contains nerve agent, it is set aside to be neutralized, or "demilitarized," by soaking 24 hours in steel tanks containing a sodium hydroxide solution.

Vocational Board Adopts 1977 Budget

The Pickaway-Ross Joint Vocational Board of Education held its annual budget hearing Thursday night and adopted a budget totaling $1,857,470 for the general fund. The budget will now be filed with the Ross County auditor.

In other action concerning finances, the board approved payment of the June bills in the amount of $25,463.

Seven per cent increases were approved for administrative salaries which correspond to the increases approved earlier for the other employees.

Three teachers were approved during the meeting leaving four vacancies in the teaching staff to be filled. Employed were Linda Baker, business and office education; Thomas Egbert, distributive education; and Harold Cline, welding. Mrs. Wilma Hannah, cosmetology instructor, was granted a continuing contract.

Gary Adams was appointed advisor for the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) chapter.

The board also employed Mrs. Jane Ronemus as adult education secretary.

A policy was adopted on the acceptance of tuition students from outside the school district. Approval was also given for participation in the Ross County-Chillicothe teacher workshop in January, 1977.

Contracts were awarded for a series of tools and equipment and other supplies for classes in carpentry, welding, electricity, machine shop, printing and auto body. In each case the contracts were awarded to the low bidder.

Approval was also given for purchase of additional secretarial desks for the business office education classes from Ebenhack and Company of Chillicothe. Ebenhack had submitted the low bid. Low bids were accepted from Burroughs for renewal of the underground wiring and to Cook Electric of Chillicothe for the installation of electrical service to the pole barn.

Food purchase contracts for the cafeteria were awarded to Blue Ribbon Dairy for milk; Betsy Ross Bakery for bread products and Borden's for ice cream.

Ray Pack, coordinator of guidance, reported to the board that the current enrollment for the 1976-77 school year stands at 453 juniors and 366 seniors.

A review of the counseling sessions during the past years showed that the vocational center's two counselors held 1,142 student counseling sessions.

The board recessed to meet again at 8 p.m. on July 29 to complete teacher appointments for the fall.

Pat Nixon Said Responding Well

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Pat Nixon's first steps after her stroke were a "most significant sign of improvement," one of her doctors says.

Mrs. Nixon, recovering from the stroke suffered last week, walked on her own for the first time Thursday since she entered the hospital.

A hospital spokesman said doctors "remain optimistic that she has a good chance of making a total or near total recovery in three to four months."
